

Learning Collaborative Meeting Evaluation Feb 11, 2022 Preventing Death By Suicide: Involving the Whole Community In Suicide Prevention

Thank You for your participation today's session of the 2022 Learning Collaborative. If time allows, please let us know how this forum served you. Comments and suggestions are welcome. Feedback will be made available to the Learning Collaborative Planning Team in an aggregate, anonymous form, and will be used to improve future offerings.

What do you want to remember from this morning?

Learning needs to continue and collaboration is key to future success.

I appreciate having the discussion in an open manner with a variety of community partners

I want to remember that we have a community that cares and wants to prevent death by suicide. I also want to remember the groups that are at particularly high risk.

It takes a community to support individuals, not just mental health professionals

The data and the steps that are being taken by the community and the way we can work together to continue this critical work.

Keeping the conversations going, across teams, agencies, friends, neighbors, etc...

The staggering percentage of people that are seen by their PCP in such close proximity to their death by suicide.

two questions to use to identify suicidal ideation and come up with way to use in practice

CAMS, CALM training, suicide survivor resources, Mission 22

What do you want to remember from this morning?

Ask the questions talk about it much more often! In my professional and personal life this was a very powerful 4 hours. the statistics were scary and emotional

The deeply dedicated people who attended . The depth of the dedication was felt through the internet.

I'm so appreciative of the many people from many professions that have supported this very complex topic.

The collaborative efforts within the community to make it a safer place, and that we are all experiencing the discomfort together.

The need to destigmatize discussing suicide.

The importance of community and the shared interest in changing stigma around discussion of suicide

"It takes a village". No one person can do this along, but each person can make a huge difference.

correct terminology, how and who i will role this out too in my communities..lots of ideas, i just need to narrow it down to specifics.

What do you want to remember from this morning?

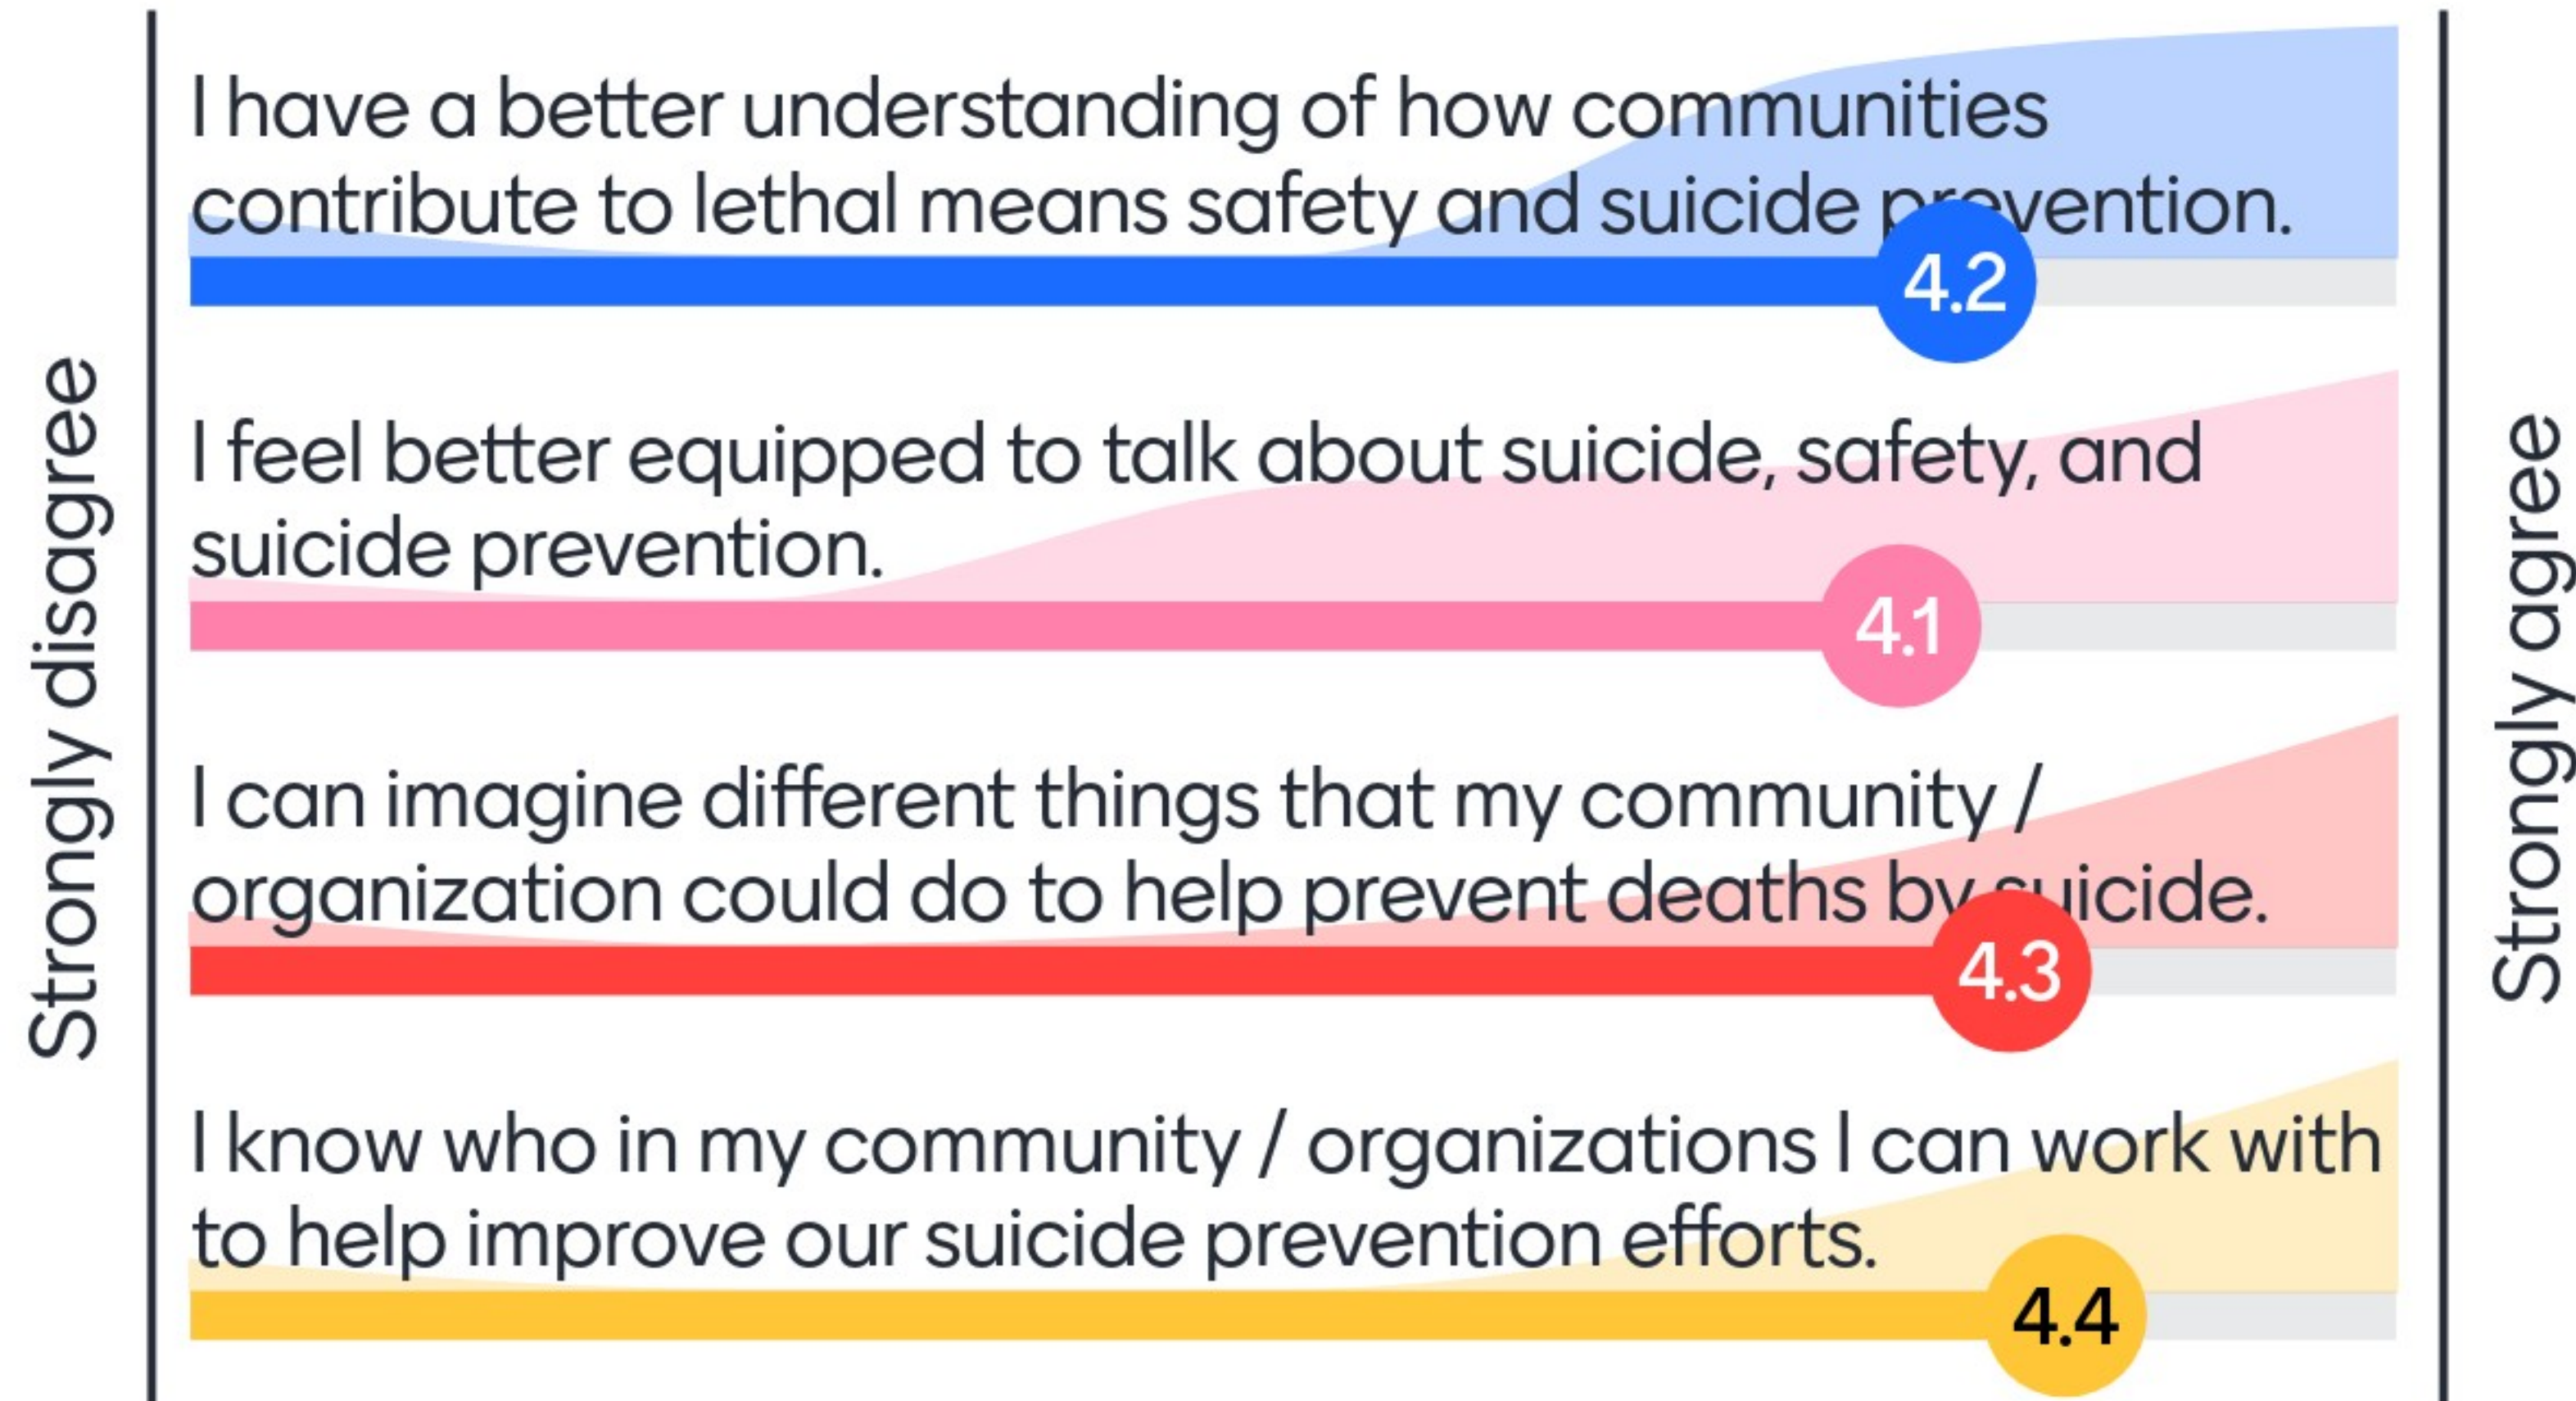

A great turnout of different community members who seem ready to support more action on zero suicide

That this is a community wide initiative.

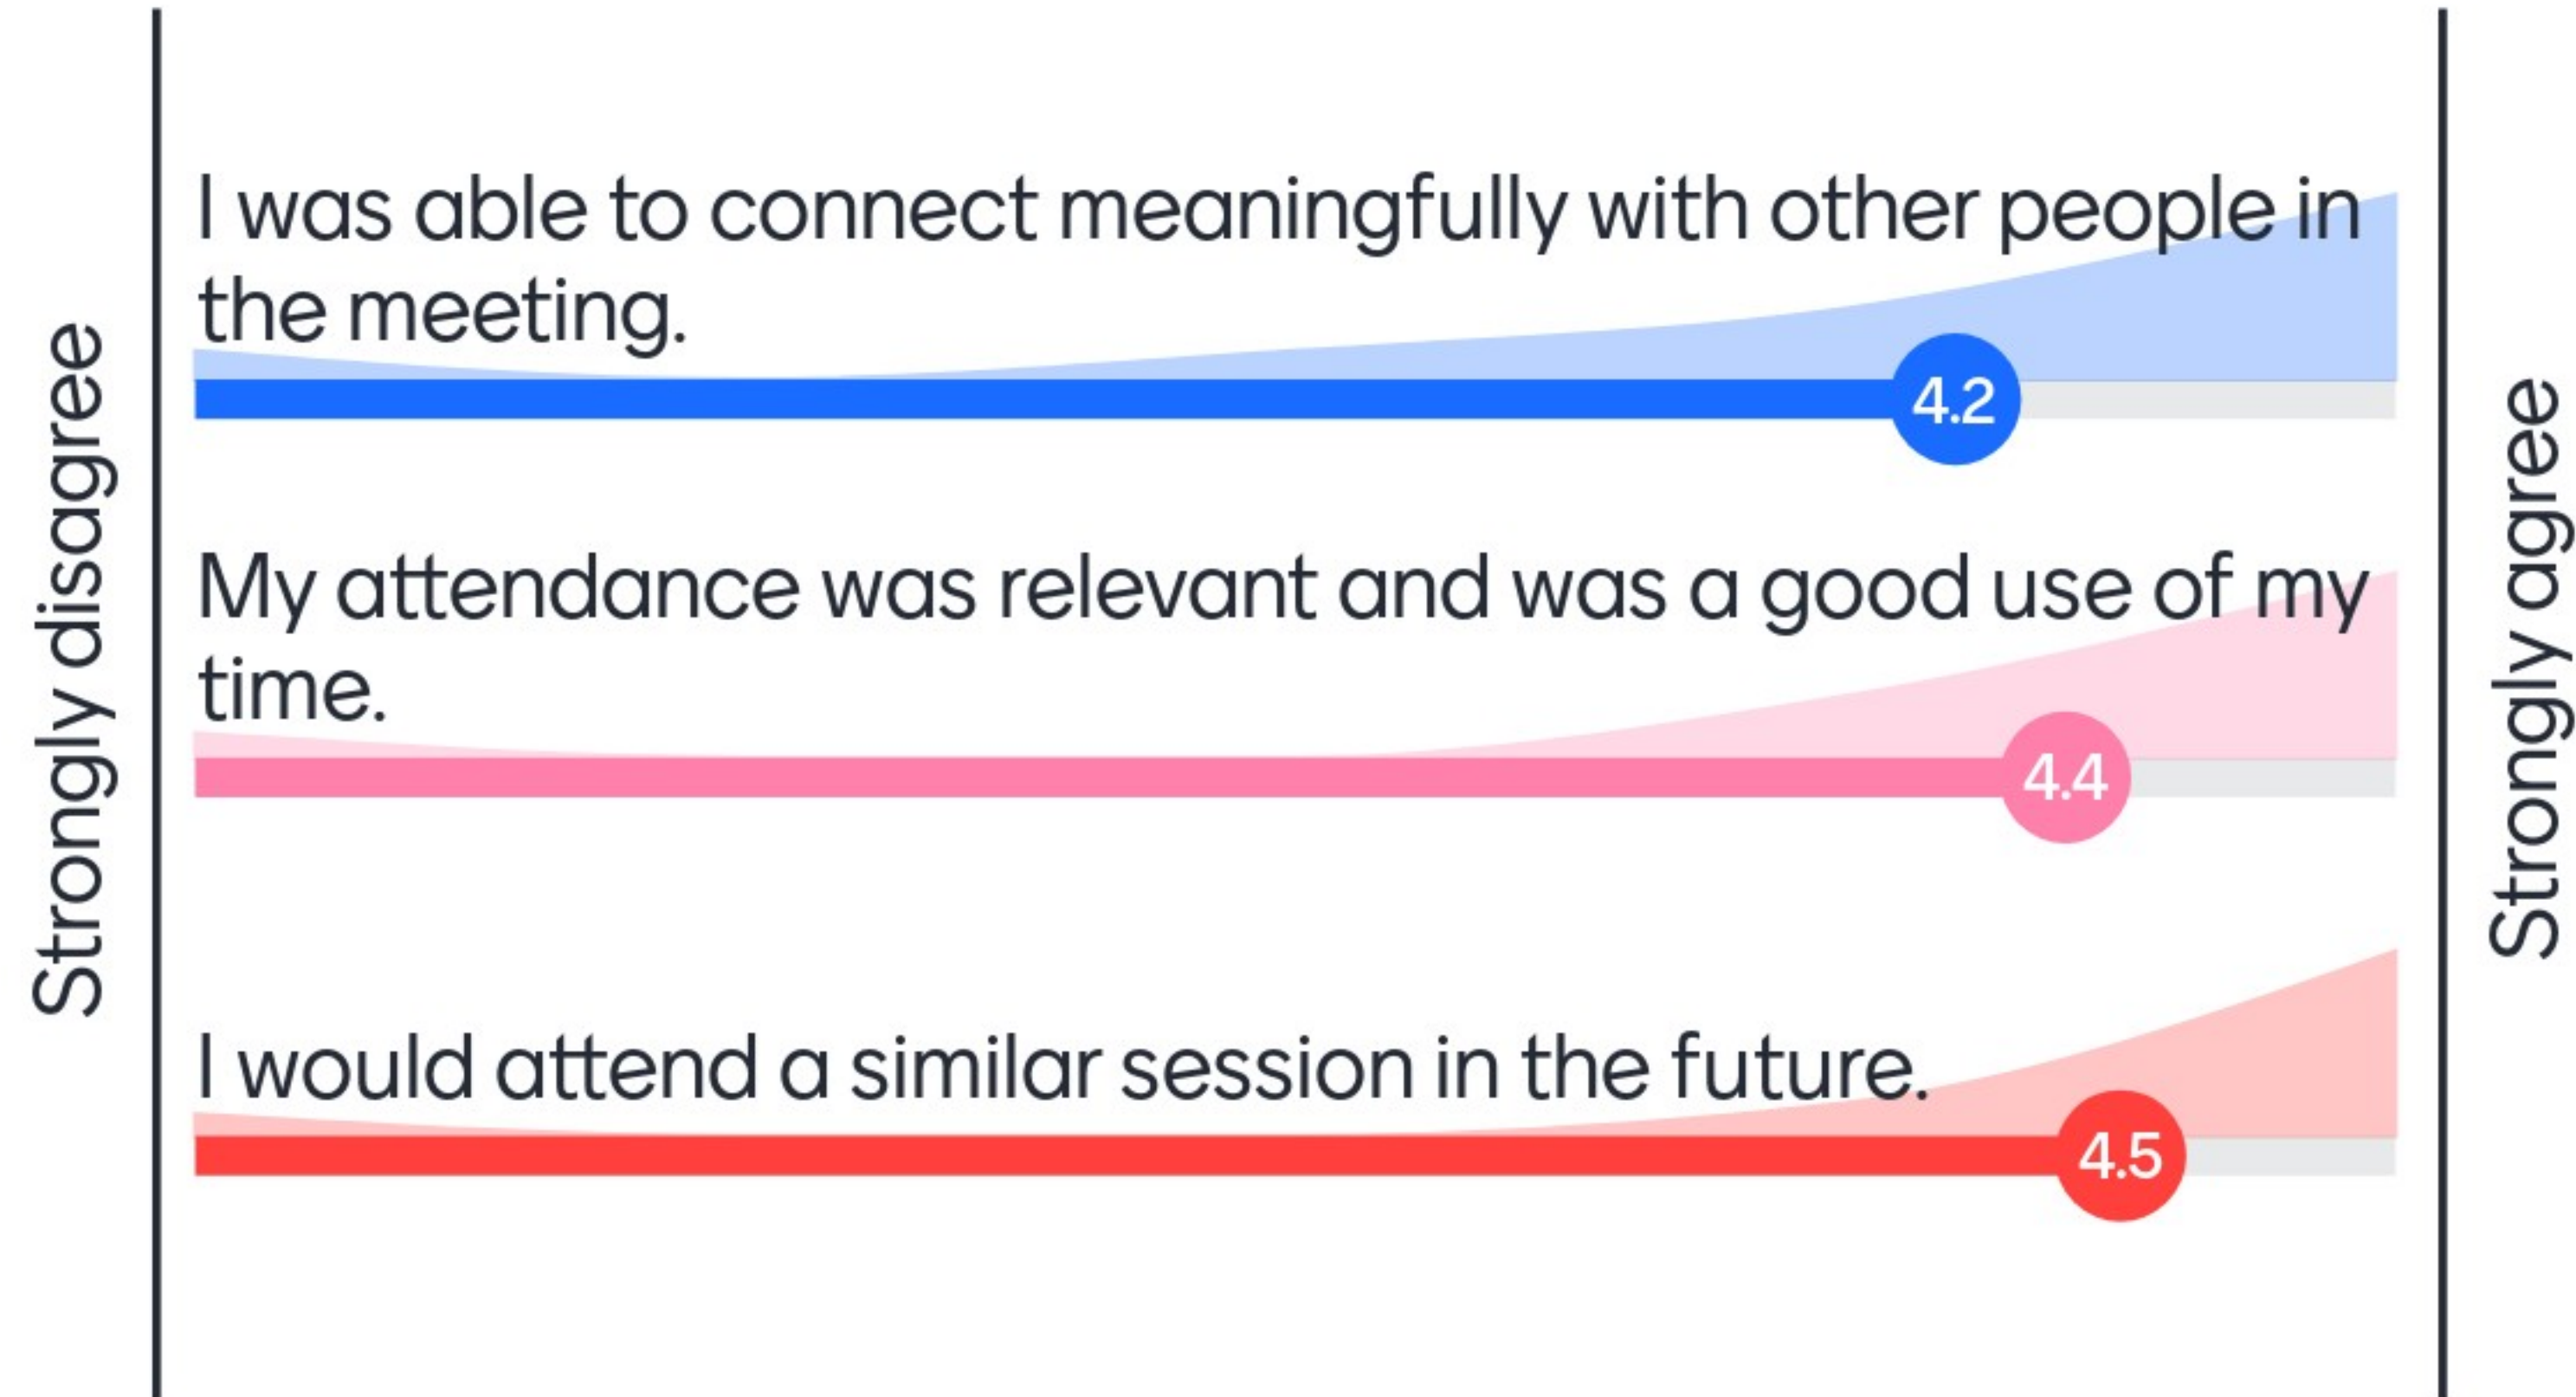

The many opportunities to get people support in the struggle to address suicides and other deaths of despair that are increasing during this time of societal disease.

How to use correct language when talking about suicide. To talk about suicide openly and without judgement. The groups most impacted by suicide. That those of us intimately affected by suicide carry that with us in a collective way.

To what extent do you agree with the following statements?

Which of these elements would you recommend we keep for future events?

(Optional) What would you improve or change for future Learning Collaborative Events?

Nothing! It was excellent!

I wouldn't change anything. I found this training very informative.

more time in small group discussions

I will use different technology so that I could be more interactive

I think that more interactive spaces scattered throughout could be useful.

more time in small group discussions

I would have liked another opportunity to have small group discussions and have heard more from the participants. Opportunity for everyone to introduce themselves at the beginning.

Nothing, I would love it if we could address this subject at every level of our community. The Vermont Prevention Model speaks to that.

I really like the way this is presented and don't have any meaningful suggestions.

(Optional) What would you improve or change for future Learning Collaborative Events?

nothing i thought it was spot-on

N/A. I love the integration of various community members and opportunities for all to share and participate in this virtual format. Well done!

I would love to have more small group breakout discussions in future learning collaborative events. I would also love if more participants used their video feature and engaged in large group discussion more.

(Optional) Is there anything else you would like organizers to know about your experience with the structure / process of today's event?

It was emotinally hard at times AND very supportive. Great job!

it was wonderful. a mixture of conversation and visuals

no

I find online meetings challenging in general but I am glad we have an opportunity for this. I am hopeful about the training Lance is doing and the fact that there are so many different organizations involved with this.

Thank You
